An Act to extend the powers of the executors of the will of the late Joseph Bowles Learmont.

[Assented to 5th March, 1915]

late Joseph Bowles Learmont, and the Royal Trust Company, in their quality of executors of the last will and testament of the said late Joseph Bowles Learmont, in his lifetime of the city of Montreal, executed the twentieth day of July, nineteen hundred and eleven, before Henry Fry and colleague, notaries, have by their petition represented:

That the said late Joseph Bowles Learmont was at the date of his death in partnership with George Caverhill, of the city of Montreal, under the firm name of Caverhill, Learmont & Co.;

That by their articles of partnership it was provided that in the case of the death of either of the said co-partners before the expiration of the term of the said co-partnership, the joint business should not be disturbed during the current year in which any such death might occur, but that the interest of the deceased partner should remain until the close of the year in which such death might take place, and then be established by the balancing of the books on the thirty-first day of December in such year, and the surviving partner should have the opportunity of assuming the interest of the deceased partner on the terms and conditions in said articles set forth;

That the said late Joseph Bowles Learmont died during the course of the year nineteen hundred and fourteen;

That the said George Caverhill is not willing to purchase the interest of the estate in the said business, but is willing to continue the partnership for a period to be agreed upon;

That the present is a very inopportune time to liquidate the said partnership business, and such liquidation would result in great loss to the said estate;

That it is in the interest of the said estate that the petitioners should be authorized to enter into agreement and make arrangements with the said George Caverhill so as to provide that the business of the said partnership may be continued for a further period;

And whereas it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petitioners;

Therefore, His Majesty, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec, enacts as follows:
